As any multiplayer game, Dofus-Arena reveals all its richness only after several battles. The game guide has been designed to accompany the new player during the first hours of the game: it explains the rules of the game and gives some clues to discover the Dofus-Arena Universe. As for experienced players, they will probably find in this guide the answers to their questions to put the finishing touches to their strategies.

0 - THE DOFUS-ARENA SOFTWARE

All you need to know to install Dofus-Arena in your computer.

0.0 - HEALTH SAFETY INSTRUCTIONS

Use this software in a well lit room and stay at a reasonable distance from the computer or television screen not to exhaust your eyes. Have breaks regularly: a 10 to 20 minute break every hour and do not play when you're tired or lacking sleep. Playing for too long or too close to the television screen can make your visual acuity drop. In some rare cases, the stimulation created by a strong or flashing light when you're staring at a television screen can cause temporary muscular convulsions or even a loss of consciousness. If you experienced such symptoms, please consult a doctor before playing to this game. If you're feeling dizzy, nauseous or sick while playing this game, stop playing immediately. If these symptoms persist, consult a doctor.

0.2 – HOW TO DOWNLOAD THE GAME

You can download the game for free on the Dofus-Arena official website.

<http://www.dofus-arena.com/> (official website)

<http://dofus-arena.com/download/> (download page)

0.3 – HOW TO INSTALL THE GAME

Once you've downloaded the installation file, decompress it in a directory of your choosing. Dofus-Arena is a light file. You need less than 200 Mo of free space to install it. Some virus or firewall protection programs can prevent you from installing the Dofus-Arena software on your computer. You may need to disable those programs while installing DOFUS.

Check out our online technical support for further information: <http://support.ankama-games.com/>

PATCHES

Every time you connect, the game will tell you if a newer version of Dofus-Arena exists to download and install it.

In order to prevent all sorts of conflicts between the different versions of the game, the users who prefer to use the "zipped" version will have to erase the previous version of Dofus-Arena before proceeding to a new installation.

SAVED FILES

DOFUS does not require any saved files since everything is online. You can therefore play on any computer wherever you are: at home, at school, at the office, in a cyber cafe etc. Your characters will always be available online on our servers. But be careful: never save your personal data on a computer that is not yours. Someone may hack your playing account!

1 – THE UNIVERSE

In the Universe of DOFUS, major gods and small gods coexist. While writing these lines, there are twelve distinctive major gods: The goddess Cra; who has a fair judgment and a sharp eye.

- The god Ecaflip; who loves to challenge his luck.
- The goddess Eniripsa; who has an infinite medicinal knowledge.
- The god Enutrof; who is famous for the treasures he finds and the power they give him.
- The goddess Feca; who is also called the Protector as her magic wrecks attacks.
- The god Iop; who is so brave that his bravery lights up the heavens.
- The god Osamodas; who can make creatures appear out of nowhere.
- The goddess Sacrier; who has an incredible self-sacrifice spirit.
- The god Sadida; who brings war and healing dolls to life.
- The god Sram; who tamed the shadow and who can talk to the invisible.
- The god Xelor; who works time to his advantage to make his designs come true.
- The goddess Pandawa; who scoffs at gravity with serenity.

Other creatures, demons, live in the Dofus-Arena universe. As any self-respecting demon, they spread disorder and stir up ill-feeling. Among these demons, there are the Hour Demons who, as Xelor himself, can manipulate the space-time... Besides, most of the warriors in the Arena have been kidnapped and enlisted by force by the Hour Demons!

1.0 – GAME STORY

Here's the shortened story of the Hour Demons Arena!

1.0.0 HOUR DEMONS AND THE ARENA

Any demon will tell you: Nothing's greater than massacring an adventurer. It even became the favorite hobby of Hour Demons. Well, you know, marking out the seconds is no longer fun after you've done it for five minutes! What would the point be in having physical advantages (muscular body, wings that Evil Tofus themselves envy), if we can't have a little fun... The hour demons were just thinking about the whole thing, between a flapping of wings of Tempousfougit and a croaking of the Time Devourer Frog, when the demon of the tenth hour got entangled in the chains of his flail. He spurted out his flick-claws and as he wanted to catch hold of the Time Frame, he tore it almost all the way down... By an extraordinary coincidence, a passing-by adventurer stepped into the breach newly created. One might as well say he's been warmly welcome by the demons. They treated him like a distinguished guest with whom they would spend a nice long moment.

At first, they only took an adventurer once in a while, nothing too important, really. They made him slide down from any part of the world, to this mysterious place which they called in between them: the "arena"¹. And they took delight in changing the topology of the arena, from a grassy plain to a dark cave. Let's be honest: these disappearances went totally unnoticed... A few kilos of adventurers missing in such a cruel world never moved anyone.

Then, it was no longer one, but five, six even up to eight adventurers at once who were dragged down into the arena. By the way, this was NOT a pleasant experience. Indeed, just imagine yourself being surprised in the middle of a casual but essential moment of your life... for instance, while polishing your Kluh Boots, or drying your blue larva skins, or even admiring your collection of Arachnee legs, or whatever...² When suddenly a demon arm grabs you from nowhere to take you to nowhere...

Your personal legend is hurt. Harsh. But not as harsh as facing twelve enraged and beaming demons with strangers!

The demons' joy didn't last long. Xelor noticed the numerous rips made in the Time Frame. He first thought it was the work of Timemite but eventually found out about the demons' little game. The god of time, himself, went to the arena to punish the demons. But as he was in a good mood, he only sermonized them... to their astonishment. However, he ordered the demons to open their arena to whoever would like to fight cleanly and therefore, perpetuate the knightly spirit of the World. He also enjoined them to fix the Time Frame as his time was precious!

The news was proclaimed in the four corners of the World by Midnight, the female demon of the twenty-fourth hour: the Dofus Arena was open to valiant knights, fearless warriors, and everyone else who wishes to have fun.

² As you can imagine, demons took any adventurers they would come across. There was no choice whatsoever in all this. Therefore, this does not make you a hero.

2 – GETTING STARTED

Information, advice and tips for you to start the game right.

2.0 - DISCOVER DOFUS-ARENA

You embody a coach who trains fighters in the arena. Create a team of valorous warriors and equip them with spells and weapons. Once satisfied with your team, prove yourself in the arena!

2.1 – LIVING IN A COMMUNITY

In Dofus-Arena, you will be able to train against your friends or against other random players. You will be able to challenge them, bet cards and maybe gain these cards if you win. But be careful: Either way, the respect reigns!

2.1.0 – YOU ARRIVE IN DOFUS-ARENA

You've just arrived on the Dofus-Arena island. This enchanting island allows you to meet your friends and to fight your enemies. At the center of this island, you can see big totems. They are perfect to protect you from the sun or to meet people.

The best dressed coaches are veterans of the game but instead of flooding them with questions, read this manual. They are fearsome fighters who deserve respect. They also like to help the beginners and do that with joy if the questions are pertinent. Even if we spend our time fighting each other, the chivalrous courtesy reigns in Dofus-Arena. Hatred is demons' business.

2.1.1 – AN APPROPRIATE SPEECH

Be clear when you speak! This is essential! Whether you are in game or on the Dofus-Arena forums, there are rules you must respect when communicating with others to avoid being sent packing... Write clearly, watch spelling and grammar mistakes!

You must be very clear when you ask a question. If you do not care about that, people won't bother to read it and to answer either. That's always more fun to play in a spirit of friendliness!

3 – CREATE A TEAM

3.0 – THE BUDGET

Before throwing your Dofusians in the arena, you have to create at least one team in the team management interface. A team is formed from one to six fighters. It costs at most 5,000 gold pieces in 1vs1 and 3,000 in 2vs2. Once a fighter is recruited, buy him the equipment and spells that seem the most useful to you. Be careful not to exceed your budget!

If you want to make tests, you can create several teams completely different without any penalty.

3.1 – CHOOSING A FIGHTER

Dofus-Arena fighters are separated into several categories named “classes”. A class distinguishes from another by his skills that are modeled on the skills of the gods of the World: Some are very marked and others are more nuanced. For instance, lops are powerful warriors whereas Eniripsas are healers. Osamodas are summoners just like the Sadidas. When trying the classes and talking with the other players, you will understand all the subtleties of each class.

Be careful, if you want to recruit several fighters from the same class in your team, they will be more and more expensive. For instance, if you create a team with several lops, the first will cost you 400, the second 500, the third 700 and the fourth lop 1,000. It is therefore strongly recommended to vary the pleasures.

Tip

All the classes are specialized and complementary: when you start, simply choose the one that corresponds to your way of playing and to the strategies you want to establish. Another tip: a team is made up of at least 3 characters. Below this number, you might have got overstuffed characters but they will not be very complementary and thus, will be easy to beat. To help you choose, here is a description of the different classes.

3.1.0 – CHOOSING THE CLASS

Dofus-Arena fighters come from the game DOFUS (www.dofus.com). Each class has its own specificities. The DOFUS players will easily make sense of it. For the others, here is a description of each class.

CRA'S RANGE

The CRA disciple is a well-balanced archer. His attack power is either high and uncertain or average and stable, according to the character's skills. Cras are real sharpshooters, they can shoot from a distance or from up close and they can hurt real bad! Their range is obviously extremely wide. A Cra worthy of the name can weaken an enemy from a distance, repel an enemy or take some of his enemies' Action Points away.

ECAFLIP'S COIN

The ECAFLIP disciple loves to hit and believes in luck. His attack power is very high when in close combat but uncertain from a distance. The Ecaflip can make hidden things appear, which can be very useful to detect traps.

ENIRIPSA'S HANDS

The ENIRIPSA disciple is a healer. His attack power is therefore very weak as well as his range. Healing their allies and giving them Action Points is their vocation! Eniripsas are quite appreciated in groups for their qualities but are easy targets when they're alone!

ENUTROF'S FINGERS

The ENUTROF disciple reduces or increases the capacities of the other fighters (Movement Points in particular). His attack power is weak, and he's not meant to fight. He is able to make himself invisible which is a valuable advantage.

FECA'S SHIELD

The FECA disciple is a born protector. Fecas can take a lot more than any other class, but in compensation, they have a very weak attack. Even if his attack power is average and quite uncertain, he can provide a powerful protection to his allies as well as to himself.

IOP'S HEART

The IOP disciple is the greatest of fighters: he isn't quite subtle, he's here to hit and he does it well! His skills also include increasing his allies' damage.

OSAMODAS'S WHIP

The OSAMODAS disciple is a creature summoner. He can summon creatures to harass, take Action Points away from the enemies or pulling them.

SACRIER'S BLOOD

The SACRIER disciple masters his pain to regain his strength. When in close combat, his power is high. He has to bring an enemy to him to show him all his power.

SADIDA'S SHOE

The SADIDA disciple is a fearsome summoner. His talents include summoning dolls that explode, block or take Action Points away from the enemies and prevent them to move.

SRAM'S SHADOW

The SRAM disciple is, just like his god, a sly master strategist. The Sram can make an ally invisible, repel enemies, or deposit traps that will trigger when an enemy walks on them!

XELOR'S SANDGLASS

The XELOR disciple is a time master. He perfectly knows how to take Action Points away from his enemies or give some to his allies while dealing big damage to the opposing team.

PANDAWA'S PINT

The PANDAWA disciple can easily defy the laws of gravity. Indeed, the Pandawa is very talented to lift his enemies off their feet and throw them into the air. He's quite appreciated in groups because he quickly throws his allies to the first line.

3.1.1 - CHARACTERISTICS OF THE FIGHTERS

Every character is defined by points and characteristics.

3.1.1.0 – THE POINTS

HP – Health Points: 60 to 80 HP (according to the class)

Your characters' Health Points decrease when they undergo damage (when hit by an enemy attack, for example). They increase when you heal your characters (through a spell, a healing cell or thanks to an ally). If one of your character's number of HPs reaches zero, he's dead until the end of the fight. He will however come back at the next fight. Starting health points are not the same from one class to another. If all your fighters have 0 HP, you lose the fight.

AP – Action Points: 6 AP

Your characters' number of Action Points determines their capacity to act. Executing an attack or casting a spell are actions that cost you action points. When your AP number reaches zero, your character can no longer act. APs are set to 6 AP for all fighters and come back to 6 at the beginning of each turn.

Before every action, the game tests in this order if the action performed by your fighter is a critical failure, a critical hit or a normal hit. In the first case, the APs are lost and the action is not performed. In the second case, the effects of the action are considerably increased (for example, it inflicts more damage). In the last case, the action is performed normally.

MP – Movement Points: 3 MP

Your characters' Movement Points determines their potential of movement. Moving a fighter takes away Movement Points from his MP capital. MPs are set to 3 for all fighters and come back to 3 at the beginning of each turn.

3.1.1.1 - CHARACTERISTICS

Most of the characteristics start from zero. The only way to increase them is to equip your fighter with equipments that give bonuses.

Blocking: 0

Blocking allows you to prevent an enemy from going away when he is in contact with one of your fighters. The latter forces him to stay next to him.

Critical Bonus: 5%

Some spells and weapons are more effective with a critical hit. This bonus increases the chance to do a critical hit.

Damage: 0%

They allow your fighter to increase the damage he deals to the enemies. Every damage corresponds to an element: air , earth , water , fire .

Evasion: 0

The evasion allows you to leave a tackle area more easily.

Initiative: 35 to 70 (according to the class)

If the initiative of one of your character is the highest of your team, you will play him first every turn. If it is the highest of all teams in the fight, you will play this fighter at the very first turn of the fight. If several fighters have got the same amount of initiative points, a drawing of lots will decide between them. The initiative depends on the class of the fighter

Summoning: 1

Some fighters can summon creatures called "summons" in the game. They can only summon one at once on the battlefield. To summon another or the same, they have to wait until the latter dies. Some spells or event cards allow you to summon several creatures on the battlefield.

Tip

An Osamodas summons animals, a Sadida summons dolls and a Sram can summon a double of himself. Be careful besides some spells only work on summons!

Critical Malus: 1%

The critical malus allows increasing the chance to make a critical failure. The "Rotten Luck" Ecaflip spell increases the critical malus. A critical failure on an action means that the latter has failed. So, the APs are lost.

Reflecting damage: 0%

If your fighter wears equipment which reflects the damage, he will inflict to his opponent some of the damage he received. For example, if he has 10% in reflecting damage and loses 10HPs, he makes the character who attacked him lose 1HP.

Reflect spell: 0%

If your fighter is to suffer the effects of a spell, there is a chance that the spell is reflected to the launcher. Pretty useful to play the biter bit!

Resistances: 0%

They allow reducing the damage suffered by a fighter. Every resistance corresponds to an element: air , earth , water , fire .

Bonus to heals: 0%

This characteristic allows increasing the power of heals. It is especially useful to Eniripsas. Sacriers and Ecaflips also heal, but in their own way which is pretty incisive!

Tip:

The "theft of life" Sram spell is not considered as a heal. To increase it, you have to take bonus to damage and not to heals.

Range: 0

Increase the range of some long-distance spells and of some weapons (bow, wand) of your fighter.

3.2 – EQUIP A FIGHTER

Once your fighters are recruited, the choice of the equipment and the spells will determine what you will be able to do during the fight. Specialize your fighters or create a polyvalent team. Discover strategies to eliminate your opponents!

You can increase the damage or reduce the damage overcome, add APs, MPs or Initiative. Improve your fighters as you think best, you are their coach! Take what you want on the racks and cover them with powerful artifacts and spells. Iop proverb: “before the scrap, prepare your swats!”

You can only give a fighter spells from his class but you can equip him with items common to all classes. Every purchase is represented by a card which price is given in gold pieces. Every card you buy is taken into account in the team budget.

3.2.0 - EQUIPMENT

A fighter can have a pet, a Dofus, a weapon, a hat and a cloak with him. Each type of items brings its own advantages. Only the Dofus is not visible on the battlefield. However, you can see them by clicking on the portrait of a fighter in the initiative bar in the top-left of your screen.

Tip

If a fighter has a weapon that inflicts fire-type damage, it's in his own best interest to wear items that give a bonus to fire-type damage. He can also know a spell that increase fire-type damage or have an ally that will increase his fire-type damage. He will therefore keep his AP to hit. Specialization has often its good points in Dofus-Arena!

3.2.1 - SPELLS

Each class of fighter has the choice between ten spells. The adept of the Pandawa Pint only have 8 because they drunk the other two, Sacriers have 9 because they immolated the last one. A fighter can have up to five different spells on the battlefield. These spells are specific to a class. For example, a spell allows dealing damage, summoning a creature, reducing the enemy's MP, increasing one of your fighters' AP, becoming invisible and much more. Each effect is described on the corresponding spell card.

Tip

Experienced players don't buy more than three spells per battle. With 6 AP per turn, it is difficult to launch a lot of spells during the same turn.

3.2.2 – CHARACTERISTICS OF OBJECTS AND SPELLS

The objects mainly bring bonuses. However, weapons and spells have particular characteristics which permit to differentiate themselves.

Critical hit and critical failure

Every hit or spell casting is submitted to critical hits (CH) and critical failure (CF). The indications concerning the critical hits are displayed on the Weapon cards and Spell cards. A critical hit can deal very important damage to the enemy or it can give you a super bonus.

A critical failure is like walking on a banana peel. You lose APs, you miss the action and you make the opposite coach laugh his head off.

Damage

When a fighter strikes or launches a damage spell, he inflicts damage corresponding to a particular element (air , earth , water , fire ).

Tips:

Damage is increased if you hit an opponent on the side (+15%) or on the back (+30%). That's vile but very useful!

Damage is fixed or random for the Ecaflips. When they are random, they are calculated according to a virtual throwing of dice.

For example, the "heads or tails" spell inflicts 2D6 points of random earth-type damage and gives back 1D6 HP. The target can lose 2 to 12 HP and can gain 1 to 6 HP.

Damage can be reduced or increased thanks to bonuses and resistances. All is in %. The way of calculating the damage follows precise rules. The game first takes into account the position bonus, then the bonus to damage, and finally the resistances of the target. It applies the result to the amount of damage

For example, Pelethor (an Enutrof) hits Doubledose (an Eniripsa) on the side. His shovel deals 10 points of damage. As he's striking on the side, 15% is added to damage. Then he has a 15% bonus to damage with his equipment. So he has 30%. However, Doubledose removes 10% of the damage thanks to a resistance given by the spell of an ally. At the end, Pelethor will deal 12 points of damage.

Here's the calculation: $10 \text{ (the shovel)} * (15\%(\text{side}) + 15\%(\text{equipment}) - 10\%(\text{resistance})) = 12$.

In case of round numbers, here's another example. Let's imagine that the final score of Pelethor is 11.88. Pelethor would have 88% of dealing 12 and 12% of dealing 11.

Elements

There are four: air , earth , water , fire . They allow you to know the nature of damage and resistances. Equip your character with cards that boost the power of his weapons and spells!

Tip:

Some very rare effects are not linked with any element. Those effects can't be increased nor reduced. For example, the damage suffered by a fighter we push against the wall is damage which doesn't take elements into account. It's damage due to a collision.

The range

Spells and weapons have range. The range is 1 for daggers, swords, hammers, shovels and staffs and up to 6 for bows and wands. For every spell, the range is different. It can be limited to the caster or to all the cells of the battlefield.

Obviously, the obstacles lower the range of weapons and sometimes, of some spells.

The Area of effect

A weapon or a spell can affect several cells. For example, a player who uses a hammer hits in a reversed T-shape right in front of him. The "Celestial Sword" lop spell forms a cross and inflicts damage to all people situated in the area. Sometimes, an imprudent lop will hit himself when casting the spell on an opponent too close to him. Anyway, it's a lop, and lops are not said to be particularly wise...

4 – BEFORE THE FIGHT

Your coach can move freely on the Dofus-Arena island. You can explore the island and chat with other players before defying them.

4.0 – YOUR FIRST WORDS

The first character that you create is your avatar. He is named “Coach” in Dofus-Arena. Even if he doesn’t fight, he represents you in the world. You can speak with the other coaches near your coach by using the chat. In this same chat bar, you’ll find different functionalities to communicate more easily with the other players.

4.1 – YOUR FIRST STEPS

To move your coach, just left click with your mouse on the location you want your coach to go to. The best thing is to follow the creepers on the ground that guide you to the arenas. You will find most of the coaches there.

4.2 – YOUR FIRST OPPONENTS

As the goal of the game is to become the first of the Dofus-Arena ladder and win the rarest coach cards, you have to defy the other coaches. For this, you’ll have to recruit a team, as explained in the previous chapter. Once done, you’re ready to pit yourself against the others. To defy other coaches, you just have to right click on them or defy them with the “Search” for opponent window.

4.2.0 – THE DIFFERENT GAME MODES

Training

The Training mode allows you to test your strategy against another player. Wining or losing in this mode does not influence your rank in the ladder.

Training with random bet

You can also bet coach cards with the training with random bet mode. The winner of the fight then wins the betted cards. The cards are chosen by the game in your cards folder. Wining or losing in this mode does not influence your rank in the ladder. It only implies that you bet your cards.

The Challenge

During the challenge, your victories and defeats make your rank change in the ladder. The more victories in a row you’ll get in the challenge mode, the more coach cards the game will give you to reward your progress.

The Challenge with random bet

During the challenge with random bet, your victories and defeats make your rank change in the ladder. The more victories in a row you'll get in the challenge mode with random bet, the more chance you'll have that the game gives you a coach card to reward your progress. The game will give you 1 card at the most. You will also gain all the cards that the loser betted.

The Challenge with random bet allows you to win more cards (those of your opponent and one given by the game). However, it forces you to bet your cards. The cards are chosen by the game in your folder.

Tip: Details about the winnings

Cards given to the winner are index-linked to the rank of the weaker player of the ladder. Beating the last one of the ladder will give you nothing but common cards. Legendary cards only appear during fights between high-ranked players.

You can't lose a locked card.

Multi-playing

The 1 vs. 1 mode allows you to defy another player.

The 2 vs. 2 mode allows you and a friend to defy another team of two players.

4.3 – FINDING AN OPPONENT CORRESPONDING TO YOUR LEVEL

You can know the rank of a Coach by looking to the creature placed above his head: it indicates the skill of the player, but everybody has the same budget, the same items and the same character classes.

In Dofus-Arena, all players have the same chances of winning. However, an experienced player is more difficult to beat besides he knows how to optimize his team at best and maneuvers it better on the battlefield. The opponent search engine always tries to find an opponent corresponding to your level.

4.4 – THE GOAL OF THE GAME

The goal of the game is of course to be the first in the Dofus-Arena ladder and to have a super look thanks to the coach cards! Only the bests of you will be able to wear the Thorturer and Mushy sets. To deserve the title of winner, you'll have to face your opponents on the battlefield!

5 – THE FIGHT

5.0 – THE BATTLEFIELD

Dofus-Arena is a turn-based tactical game: Every fighter of a team can be played during a specific duration (40 seconds). He can hit, cast spells and move. Now, it's your turn!

5.0.0 – BEFORE THE FIGHT

A window sums up who fight against whom with what team. You can also view the action cards given to each team. These cards add a bit of spice to the battles. They allow you to improve the tactics and to surprise the opponent.

Tip

At the beginning of each fight, you get from one to four action cards for the battle. Your opponent gets the same cards than you.

5.0.1 – GAME TURN AND ACTIVATION PHASE

A fighter is in his activation phase when he starts playing in the turn. His activation phase automatically ends after 40 seconds or manually when clicking on the button "end of activation". A game turn starts when the character with the highest initiative begins his activation phase. It ends when the fighter with the lowest initiative ends his activation phase.

Tip:

Don't hesitate to end your fighter's activation phase as soon as you have finished playing. You will therefore let less time to your opponent to think about the strategy!

5.0.2- AT THE BEGINNING OF EACH TURN

An event card comes and disrupts the battlefield. It brings advantages or disadvantages to a class or to all the classes. Gods like to mix with the fighters and to help their disciples. Discover all the event cards!

Tips

You can see the next events that will strike on the battlefield in the lower-right of the screen. Pay attention to this detail and adapt your strategy accordingly if you don't want to be taken off your guard.

Tips

It's better to have several classes in you team. Therefore, you will have more chance of getting a card which favors at least one of your fighters. A god favors his class and disfavors the others. For instance, Enutrof gives MP to his disciples and take 1 MP from the others away.

5.0.3 – FIGHTING ON THE BATTLEFIELD

HIT

When you want to hit an enemy with your fighter, click on his weapon or on his fist. A sight line appears: cells on which your fighter can hit become blue; when you put your cursor on one of them, the cell (or the group of cells if it's an area of effect) becomes red. Then, you have just to click on the red cell of your choice to launch your attack.

Tip

When hitting with its fists, each class has its own element.

Air  : Sram, Cra, Sacrier

Earth  : Iop, Sadida, Osamodas

Water  : Enutrof, Ecaflip, Feca

Fire  : Xelor, Pandawa, Eniripsa

CAST A SPELL

It is the same way as hitting.

LAUNCH AN ACTION CARD

It is the same way as hitting or casting a spell.

Action cards are available for all your fighters. An action card costs 0AP and can only be used once per battle.

5.0.4 – MOVING ON THE BATTLEFIELD

WALKING

When you select one of your characters and it's his turn, the cells around him become green. If you click on a green cell with a left click, your character goes to it. Your character can also climb the elevations (stairs) of the field.

Be careful: If you are next to an enemy, you can be tackled. Your character might miss his turn if he tries to free himself from the close combat with an opponent.

TACKLE

When two opposing fighters are on adjacent cells, they are in a "tackle area". The fighter who wants to move has to manage to evade. He has a 67% chance to succeed. If gods are with him, he will be able to move (in order to run away in general). If he fails, he is considered as tackled and misses his turn. Acting or moving can be a crucial choice sometimes.

Be careful: If one of your fighters is surrounded by 4 enemies, he can no longer move. If he is in the tackle area of several enemies (three at most), he has to manage to evade each of them.

SPECIAL CELLS

Every battlefield is composed of neutral cells and special cells which trigger effects. An effect is triggered only if a fighter starts his activation phase on a special cell. It's no use to walk on or to fly over a special cell: The fighter must start his turn on it.

Here are the different types of special cells you can encounter:

Trap: The fighter loses 10 HPs

when he walks on it
Enthusiasm: Bonus to damage inflicted +10% (not neutral)

Shield: Reduces damage undergone +10% (not neutral)

Eagle eye: Gives a +1 bonus to the range

Panacea: A healer gains a bonus to heals of 10%

Motivation: Gives a bonus of +1 to AP

Healing heart: An injured fighter gains 5 HPs

An effect is immediate. Except for the Trap and Healing heart special cells, the effect of the special cells last during the entire fighter's turn, from the beginning of his activation phase to the beginning of his next activation phase.

KILLER CELLS

If one of your fighters starts his activation on a killer cell, he is automatically killed. However, a fighter can walk on a killer cell and will not trigger it this way. There is no risk of being killed by the cell as long as the fighter is not on the cell when he starts his activation.

Be careful: If an enemy manages to push or pull some of your characters on killer cells just before the beginning of their turn, the latter might be killed without being able to act. A killer cell is insatiable and is always active. A whole team can die on the same killer cell and during the same turn if each of the fighters starts his activation phase on it.

Killer cell: The fighter dies

5.1 - VICTORY

According to the chosen game mode, the winner wins several things or not. If he is in challenge or training with random bet mode, he wins some cards of the loser. If he is challenge mode, he wins ranks in the ladder and maybe cards if he wins several times in a row.

If he is just in training mode, he wins the pride of having humiliated his opponent in a pixelbath.

Whatever the result of the fight is, your fighters will be fresh as a daisy for the next battle.

6 – THE RANKING

The Dofus-Arena ranking system offers 50 ranks. The more enemies you'll beat, the more points you'll win in the ladder. Be careful: defeats can make you lose ranks. The higher-ranked the enemy you beat is, the more ranks you'll win in the ladder. The opposite is also true: If you are beaten by an enemy of a very lower rank than yours, you'll lose a lot of ranks. Anyway, you have to win, win and have fun!

Tip

The cards you win during Challenges are always index-linked on the weakest player. Therefore, it's better to play with enemies of your level.

7 – THE COACH CARDS FOLDER

The folder allows you to store the coach cards you won during your successive victories or during bets. These cards are used to give a personal touch to your coach. They are the blazing trophies of your victories.

COST OF THE CARDS

Gold pieces are used to recruit fighters or buy spells and stuff. The cost of coach cards is expressed in Kamas and corresponds to their rarity. There are ordinary cards (1 to 100 Kamas), common cards (200 to 4,000 Kamas), rare cards (5,000 to 30,000 Kamas), legendary cards (31,000 to 40,000 Kamas) and epic cards (41,000 to 50,000 Kamas). Only the bests of us have epic cards. It's your turn now to win them!

PERSONALIZATION CARDS

Your avatar can use a lot of cards which transform or dress him. He can be dressed from head to foot and also change his haircut or bear a tattoo. Your avatar can wear the objects you want and if you like to be dressed up to the nines, you can enjoy yourself putting together the pieces of a same outfit to obtain a set.

CURSED CARDS

From time to time, during your victories, the demons give you cursed cards. These cards come within your folder. They stick to an empty slot of one of your set. Once stuck, you can no longer wear the set. To get rid of a cursed card, you just have to win battles or find the card which fits in the slot the cursed card is sticking to.

PET CARDS

A pet is a tiny strange creature which keeps your coach company. To have a pet, you often have to gather several pieces and assemble them. Pet cards can't be granted by the game when you win a battle. The game will only give you pet parts cards. Only the bravest ones have one of these charming little creatures.

COMBINING CARDS

Coach cards can be combined to create new cards. For example, the pets are created by combining parts of pet. To combine cards, you just have to put them in the combining windows and to click on the combine button. Now it's your turn to find right combinations to obtain super coach cards.

LOCKS

When you bet cards during challenges or trainings and you are beaten, you lose cards. The cards you lose are chosen by the game. To avoid losing your favorite cards, you can lock them. But be careful: you only have got ten locks.

Tip

If you have an entire set, you can lock it entirely using only one lock. There's also another tip: a card equipped on your coach can't be betted. Therefore, you can't bet your last shirt or your last panties if your coach is wearing them. Phew, the moral is safe!

8 – LIFTING OR BEING LIFTED?

The spell that allows lifting fighters brings particular cases that deserve to be known.

THE TOWER

The Pandawa who lift and the fighter who is lifted form a “tower”.

As long as a Pandawa is lifting someone, the lifted fighter can't be directly targeted including by himself. He can only target the “tower”.

SHAKE THE TOWER

A pushing (or pulling) on a pandawa, pushes the pandawa and make the lifted fighter fall where the pandawa was.

Petrification and other immobilizations don't make the lifted fighter fall and don't affect him. Only the pandawa is affected.

TURRET EFFECT

A fighter on a pandawa benefits from an elevation identical to that a 4-high ground would give him.

BENEFICIAL SPELLS

Beneficial spells from a lifted fighter (for example a buff), from another fighter (a heal) or from the environment (for example the fog) always affect the whole “tower” (the pandawa transmits the effect).

For instance, if you target the tower or the cell where the pandawa is and you cast a spell, the pandawa will get his heal, and the lifted fighter will get an identical heal.

HARMFUL SPELLS

Harmfull spells only affect the base of the tower (the pandawa doesn't transmit the effect).

If a debuff spell targets the tower, only the pandawa will be bothered.

If the lifting pandawa dies, the lifted fighter falls on the ground and can be targeted.

If a spell has both a positive and a negative effect, the Pandawa undergoes the negative effect and the lifted character undergoes the positive effect.

SPECIAL CELLS

If a tower is on a killer cell, the pandawa dies during his activation, the lifted fighter falls and will be affected by the cell during his own activation.

Special cells with beneficial effects affect the whole tower. This allows healing two characters with the same spell.

Special cells with harmful effects only affect the lifting pandawa.
